These are the pop-up pages associated with the EQIC software package, developed over a number of years. These popups represent the latest innovations with the software. Using these popups speeds up the software, as the software previously relied on “cell watching” (Watching for a particular cell to be updated and then replicated on all other sheets as necessary) - this meant that the information could be typed into any sheet of the spreadsheet and the information would be transferred to all cells on other sheets.
